Selecting a Ramp

We offer a wide variety of wheelchair and scooter ramps and it is easy to get confused as to the right ramp for your situation. If you are unsure of which type to use, we suggest you try our Ramp Wizard™ on our web site or call our toll free customer service at 866-491-1110.

Use this handy chart to help determine the proper ramp length for you. Please follow these steps:

1. Measure the total vertical height you will need to climb (in inches).
 - For stairs, measure each stair and add them together
 - For Vans, measure from the ground straight up to the highest point inside the van you will need to reach.
 - For other applications, like porches, measure from the ground straight up to the highest point you will need to reach.
2. Using number of inches you determined in step 2, find that number of inches you need to climb on the right side of the chart.
3. Follow the row across to the left. As you follow across, any column with numbers in it indicates that a ramp may* be used at that height. The numbers in the chart indicate the approximate angle of wheelchair ramp slope at that height.
4. Follow the appropriate column to the bottom and see the corresponding ramp length.
5. Consult the user manual that came with your wheelchair or scooter to determine any slope (angle) restrictions that may apply and select a ramp that meets those requirements. Never use a handicap ramp that exceeds the ramp slope requirements of your chair/scooter.

General Guidelines for Ramp Use:

- Never exceed your equipment's recommendations.
- Generally, it is best to stay under 10 degrees.
- 11-13 degrees maximum for pushing a patient up in the chair.
- 15 degrees maximum for walking behind & pushing up an empty chair.
- 17 degrees maximum for loading an empty chair from beside the ramp.
- The longer the ramp is, the easier it is to use.

They are made from lightweight, yet durable aluminum with a rust proof finish making them ideal for either indoor or outdoor use. They are great for use with Wheelchairs, Scooters, Walkers and more. Threshold ramps may be used either one by itself or two one on each side of a sliding glass door to make entry and/or exit convenient and safe.

Simply measure the height of the door entry or step and choose the correct size for your application. If you are in-between sizes, please look at the Adjustable Threshold Ramps. They install easily in minutes and provide a solid, non-skid driving surface that supports up to 700 lbs. All sizes of these threshold ramps are 34" wide, are 9.6 degrees (incline) and compatible with almost any wheelchair or scooter. They should be placed on a smooth, level surface for best use Guaranteed in Stock with Fast Free Shipping!
